Jane Addams Children's Book Award 2020 Finalists

The Jane Addams Peace Association is delighted to announce that for the first time in the history of the Jane Addams Children's Book Award, we are publicly sharing the finalist titles under consideration for the award. Please find the exemplary 2020 Jane Addams Children's Book Award Finalists for Younger and Older Children listed at the conclusion of this release.

The Peace Association will announce winning and honor books from among these finalists on January 15, 2021, and will hold a virtual ceremony on April 28, 2021, featuring winning and honor authors and illustrators. All are invited, whether they be in classrooms, libraries or at home.

Since 1953, the Jane Addams Children's Book Award has annually recognized children's books of literary and aesthetic excellence that effectively engage children in thinking about peace, social justice, global community, and equity for all people. A national committee of members with passion for and expertise in children's literature and social justice is responsible for making the choices each year.

We believe this year, especially, that these books and others like them can open up conversations between children and their adults--teachers, librarians and caregivers--about what is happening in the world around them and how they can be changemakers in their own families and communities. We hope that promoting our final contenders in this way will serve to highlight a greater number of excellent children's books that can deepen understanding of peace and justice.

A special thanks to the Hastings Peace and Justice Fund for their generous support in developing this new endeavor.
